

Prison Meets Strike Threat

THOMASTON, Me., Oct. 12 (UPI)—All 330 prisoners at Maine State Prison were locked in their cells today when inmates who work in the kitchen threatened to strike unless a supervisor was transferred. Miss Ward E. Murphy, Maine Corrections Commissioner, said, "This morning when the kitchen staff elected not to go to work it was felt necessary to put in a security situation at the institution."