

Photos by Lee Lockwood, Bob Fitch (Black Star), A.P., courtesy Bucknell Univ.

confidence that people are making seriously of ig called us up to Conn. last night along with he have not told you, has become one of our bitter
 none with a knowledge of the scene, a keen sen te fear of risk for himself. He's the most central + went into the Boards in Georgetown with the
 for an action which would say - escalated sed pros + cons for several hours. It needs much selection of personnel. To kidnap - in our terms
 - of - someone like Henry Kissinger. Him because maker yet sans cabinet status, he would there at B as one of the bigger wigs; he is a bachelor w

A. Philip and Daniel Berrigan. B. Letter from Sister Elizabeth McAlister smuggled to Philip Berrigan. C. Philip Berrigan (c.) at federal prison in Danbury, Conn. D. House in Weston, Conn., where meeting took place. E. Prison informer Boyd Douglas who smuggled letters for Philip Berrigan. F. Five of the defendants: from left, Eqbal Ahmad, Father Joseph Wenderoth, Anthony Scoblick, Sister Elizabeth McAlister, Father Neil McLaughlin.

Was your ad in Life this week?

The "plot" to kidnap Henry Kissinger.

Though the 6 people knew one another, they were not close friends. But each was close to Father Daniel Berrigan, and on the evening of August 17, 1970, they sat on a screened porch in Weston, Conn., discussing his capture of a few days before.

The government charges that during that meeting they formulated a plot to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger.

Through confidential sources, Lee Lockwood pieced together the conversation that took place.

The account, one may assume, is essentially what the defendants will testify in their own defense at their conspiracy trial next fall.

In a nation whose conscience is troubled by 10 years of the Vietnam war, the case is a kind of real-life morality play. It's an important story, and it's the kind of story that's made Life the most important publication in the country.

Because Life is conscious of the things that affect this country and the people in it.

Which is why the people in it, readers and advertisers alike, are conscious of Life.