NYTimes

THE NEW YORK TIMES, F

Letter Found in Priest's Cell Linked to Berrigan Indictment

By HOMER BIGART

ial to The New York Time

testified today that the finding of a contraband letter in the cell of the Rev. Philip F. Berri-gan led to the exposure of an alleged antiwar conspiracy that included a plot to kidnap Henry A. Kssinger, President Nixon's adviser for national security officing affairs. The testimony led to an angry exchange between former Attorney General Ramsey Clark counsel for Father Berrigan, and Judge R. Dixon Herman of the Federal District Court here

When Mr. Clark tried to bring out in cross-examination that the use of prisoners as informers against fellow in-mates was contrary to national prison policy and that the flow of illicit letters to and from prisons was so considerable that it was now "enlightened policy" to lift mail restrictions, he was reprimanded by Judge Herman and gavelled down when he persisted in that line of questioning. When Mr. Clark tried to of questioning.

Leter Found in Cell

According to Joseph T. Porensky, a guard who searched Father Berrigan's cell, the contraband letter was secreted in the pages of a news magazine found in the cell during a rou-tine shakedown. The shakedown was made in May, 1970, soon after the priest began a six-year sentence at Lewisburg prison for the destruction of

and was persuaded to become an informer for the Federal an informer for the Federal ter Judith Savard, testified Bureau of Investigation. Douglas served for several months as a courier between Father Berrigan and his co-providing the F.B.I. with copies of the correspondence. The Government contends that Government contends that

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 24— Douglas, its key witness, Two Federal prison officials learned not only of the bizarre testified today that the finding plot to abduct Mr. Kissinger, of a contraband letter in the cell of the Rev. Philip F. Berri-gan led to the exposure of an alleged antiwar conspiracy that included a plot to kidnap Henry cities cities. Mr. Clark tried to get Mr. Hendricks to concede that the uncovering of contraband prison mail was commonplace and rarely, if ever, led to an in-dictment. The defense contends that the Government has re-sorted to "selective prosecution" in the Berrigan case with the intent of stifling critics of the war in Indochina. Mr. Clark told Judge Herman that his questions to Mr. Hendricks on the rarity of mail Hendricks on the rarity of mail contraband indictments were designed to expose "the Gov-ernment's violation of consti-tutional rights." Judge Herman rapped his gavel and said, "Mr. Clark, you know that's not proper." Smuggling of letters into or out of prisons carries a maxi-

Smuggling of letters into or out of prisons carries a maxi-mum penalty of 10 years. Three of the defendants—Father Ber-rigan, Sister Elizabeth Mc-Alister and Ahmed Eqbal, a Pakistani scholar—are specific-ally charged with illicit correspondence. Sister Eliza-beth and Dr. Ahmad are also charged with writing a letter to Father Berrigan containing a proposal to kidnap Mr. Kissinger. Kissinger.

after the priest began a six-year sentence at Lewisburg prison for the destruction of draft records in Baltimore and Catonsville, Md. The contents of the letter, not yet revealed to the jury, another prisoner. Douglas was confronted by prison officials to Robert L. Hendricks, then associate warden at the prison, and was persuaded to become Kissinger. Sister Grace Marie Russell, Sister Grace Marie Russell, Sister Grace Marie Russell, Sister Grace Marie Russell, Sister Sister Elizabeth during the that she served as a mail drop for Sister Elizabeth during the burg postmark and clandestine-ly intended for Sister Elizabeth burg motor of 1970. Several special burg postmark and clandestine-ly intended for Sister Grace Marie were received, the wit-ness said. Another Marymount nun, Sisness said. Another Marymount nun, Sis-ter Judith Savard, testified yesterday that she also served as a mail drop for Sister Eliza-