Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, April 4—The Rockefeller Commission investigating the Central Intelligence Agency has received "no credible evidence" that the C.I.A. had any involvement in the assassination of President Kennedy or that Lee Harvey Oswald was not, as the Warren Commission found, the lone assassin, the panel's executive director said today.

The assertion by David W. Belin was a departure from the commission's policy of not commenting on its investigations.

Mr. Belin said he had chosen to speak out because of a comment by President Ford in San Diego, yesterday and several press reports that might lead to speculation that there was substantive new evidence of C.I.A. involvement or a conspiracy plot in the murder of President Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

Mr. Belin said that the commission would continue to accept any evidence that might be brought forth but he said, in response to reporters' questions, that nothing so far had disputed the Warren Commission conclusions.

Mr. Belin first attempted to reduce speculation in early March when it was raised by accounts from witnesses before the commission who indicated that they had been asked about the Kennedy assassination.

But President Ford repeated the matter yesterday. Mr. Belin said, when he said the Rockefeller Commission was looking at the problems raised by the commission's investigation of the Kennedy assassination. "Both President Ford and Mr.

Belin were involved in the Warren Commission. Mr. Ford, who was a member of the commission as a congressman, said at the San Diego news conference that he had seen evidence that would contradict the Warren report but went on to note the Rockefeller Commission was investigating it.
