Shootout Increases Tension in Chile

By Marlise Simons Special to The Washington Post SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 8 ist workers last night, in an hidden in the building. action that further strained relations between the armed forces and the government.

held urgent conversations this met with several government morning with leaders of the officials and Socialist leaders. six parties which make up his Jaime Faivovich, a former People's Unity coalition, and Under Secretary of Transport, also called in the commanders of the three armed services.

In last night's incident, which took place in the indus- preme authority of this countrial San Miguel district of Santiago, air force troops machine-gunned the Sumar nylon factory, wounding three workers and causing damage to the building and machinery. The air force reported that a noncommissioned officer was also wounded.

A statement from the air force command this morning said that the troops, who were investigating reports of cache of weapons in a house near the factory, were fired on from a passing car, from a nearby building and from the factory itself. The statement added that after the two-hour gun battle, 23 civilians were arrested.

The air force command also reported that it found large quantities of "helmets, pointed sticks and Socialist propa-ganda" inside the raided ganda" inside the raided house. The Socialist Party is the largest in the government coalition and the party of President Allende.

ment in their insistence that Chilean air force troops fired no shots were fired from the nervousness, which the air on a factory occupied by left-plant and that no arms were force shares with the army sources say, the armed forces

Several thousand workers gathered outside the plant this morning and tempers were President Salvador Allende running short as the workers > angrily declared, "The armed forces are provoking the workers. They want to give the impression that they are the sutry.

> According to Faivovich, "the military coup is already under way" in Chile, and the work-..., in calle, and the workers "must mobilize to stop-this."

Well-placed observers here feel that last night's affair has sion between opponents and operating as a virtual autonramifications which go much supporters of the government omous body within the state.

Workers at the Sumar fac-I further than the events them-I by cracking down on extremtory this morning were vehe-selves. The action by the air lists of both right and left who force betrays a continuing were using or storing arms. and the navy, these observers have used the law almost exbelieve. The armed forces clusively against suspected clearly fear that factories and leftist militants and have done working class throughout the country have against extremists of the been turned into veritable ar- right. senals for use in any future armed conflict.

> the armed forces are making "partial and unjustified" use of the arms control law which this week. During that search, government itself introduced eight months ago at the suggestion of the conservative leadership of the opposition Christian Democrats.

> dent explained that this law a process under which the armed forces to defuse the ten-

Since then, however, these districts little or nothing to move

Leftist leaders also reported today the death of a farm The government says that worker who they said was tortured after troops carried out a search for arms earlier a Socialist deputy alleged, another farmworker was hung from a helicopter in midair for more than an hour.

These incidents are seen by Sources close to the presi- Allende's supporters as part of