President Ford will visit Japan for three days beginning November 19, the White House announced yesterday.

Mrs. Ford will accompany the President on the trip to the Far East at the invitation of the Tokyo government.

The invitation to Mr. Ford to visit Japan had been announced previously and the President had accepted, saying he would visit the nation before year's end.

The trip is expected to be Mr. Ford's first foreign journey as President. The trip will mark the first time an American president has visited Japan.
