Flashy Prosecutor Jim Garrison

Special to The New York Times NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24 —Jim Garrison's style is the "big splash," that of the big man who does things in a big way. And the flamboy-ant approach of the 6-foot 6-inch District Attorney to the job of enforcing the law in Orleans Parish (County) usually is accompanied by a rash of headlines. Man He has battled in the businessmen of Bourbon Street,

Bourbon

Bourbon Street, News the garish strip of honky tonks and French restaurants that draw thousands of tourists to New Orleans. He once took on eight judges simultaneously in a running legal and verbal battle.

After these and other Gar-rison forays few here were surprised that he decided to tackle the Warren Commis-sion and its conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald assassin-ated President Kennedy alone and without being a part of a conspiracy. a conspiracy.

Pales by Comparison

Pales by Comparison Even Mr. Garrison's flam-boyance pales by comparison with some of the antics that have characterized Louisiana politics in the past. He has yet to match the late Gov. Earl K. Long, self-styled "last of the red-hot poppas." Nor has he equaled in showman-ship the Governor's late brother, Senator Huey P. Long, the "kingfish" of "every man a king" fame. Until five years ago, Mr. Garrison was a relatively ob-scure assistant city attorney, best known for his habit of bar hopping along Bourbon Street, frequently in a white dinner jacket. Then suddenly he resigned with a headline-making attack on Mayor Vic-tor Hugo Schiro, whom he ac-cused of failing to enforce vigorously the city's laws, and leaped into the race for dis-trict attorney against the in-cumbent, Richard Dowling. A fiercely independent "re-form" candidate, Mr. Garri-son, despite his big figure, trict attorney against the in-cumbent, Richard Dowling. A fiercely independent "re-form" candidate, Mr. Garri-son, despite his big figure, created a public image for himself as a David against Goliath, a Sir Galahad taking on machine politics single-handedly. But he tild it with wit. It-was hard even for his epponents not to laugh when he labeled Mr. Dowling as "the great emancipator he let everybody go free." Mr. Garrison, married and the father of three children, had the "common touch. Al-though he was named James C. Garrison at his birth in Dennison, Iowa, on Nov. 29, 1921, he insisted through World War II as a fighter pilot and his school years at Tulahe University that he simply be called Jim. Finally, he tok legal action to make Jim his formal name.

He also managed to keep a

He also managed to keep a ruggedly healthy look, prac-ticing isometrics, but not to the extent of neglecting books. He often reads until 3 or 4 A.M.—lately in books that deal with the Kennedy assassination—at his home on Owens Boulevard in a new two-story New Orleans-style home in an area about two miles from Lake Pontehar-train where house prices range from $40,000 to $75,000. Despite all this, Mr. Garri-son was decidely an underdog in the 1962 district attorney's in the 1962 district attorney's campaign. However, the "big campaign. However, the "big splash" technique put him over. He hoarded his cam-paign money until the last, then saturated the television screens here with commercials during the last 24 hours of during the last 24 hours of the campaign. Mr. Garrison quickly proved that Garrison the campaigner was a dull, sedentary type, compared with Garrison the district attorney. He con-victed men on charges that had been dropped under his predecessor, and established had been dropped under his predecessor, and established a record of never losing a murder case. He also began a clean-up of what he said was prostitution and black-mail on Bourbon Street. And when Mayor Schiro, not to mention many of the city's businessmen, showed little enthusiasm, he buried them in literary and historical al-lusions. When eight city judges tried to cut off funds for Mr.

lusions. When eight city judges tried to cut off funds for Mr. Garrison's investigation, he compared them to the "sacred cows of India . . . rushing to the defense of their institu-tions." The judges sued, suc-ceeded in getting Mr. Garri-son fined $1,000 for defama-tion of character, but Mr. Garrison appealed to the and won.

Oswald once lived in New Oswald once lived in New Orleans. When The New Or-leans States-Item said last week that he had spent $8,-000 on the inquiry, he became angry.

Although Mr. Garrison had Although Mr. Garrison had previously refused to say any-thing "on the record" about his investigation, he announced Saturday that he planned to make arrests for what he said was a "conspiracy" and a "plot" that culminated in President Kennedy's death. He seemed taken aback at the worldwide interest in his charges.

worldwide interest in ins charges. Some local political observ-ers are convinced that Mr. Garrison, who was instru-mental in electing Gov. John J. McKeithen, is eyeing a Senate seat or possibly even the Vice-Presidency some day.

United States Supreme Court

Gar.

Angry at Newspaper

Mr. Garrison claims juris-diction in the Kennedy assas-

25 Feb. 1967

