

2 More Jurors Seated in Shaw Trial

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — Two more jurors have been seated for the trial of Clay Shaw, charged with conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy. Both survived rigorous questioning.

The jurors have been asked whether they thought the Warren Commission was right in saying Lee Harvey Oswald shot Kennedy, working alone and for reasons unknown.

The only acceptable answer to both state and defense was "I have no opinion."

Four jurors were seated in the first two days of what the prosecution predicts might be a two-month hearing. It resumed today with efforts continuing to pick a jury.

The two chosen yesterday were William Ricks Jr., 31, a school teacher, and Charles D. Ordes, 39, assembly line supervisor at a can manufacturing plant.

District Attorney Jim Garrison has rejected the Warren Commission conclusions, charging that Shaw, 55, a retired businessman, conspired with Oswald and others to assassinate Kennedy.

The defense issued new subpoenas including one for Mrs. Ruth Hyde Paine of Irving, Tex., who befriended Oswald's wife Marina during periods Oswald was out of work.

Shaw in S.F. The Day JFK Was Slain

Clay Shaw, on trial in New Orleans on charges of conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy, was in San Francisco Nov. 22, 1963, the day of the assassination in Dallas.

Shaw was then managing director of the International Trade Mart in New Orleans. He had a room reserved for him at the St. Francis Hotel from Nov. 21 through Nov. 24.

He spent most of the morning of Nov. 22 at the World Trade Center here talking to local trade leaders.

J. Monroe Sullivan, then executive director of the San Francisco World Trade Center, said he arranged a special luncheon at the World Trade Club for Shaw but the news of the assassination was received and only 14 persons attended.

Don E. DeLone, trade promotion manager for the Port of San Francisco, recalled Shaw as an "urbane" person.

"He appeared just as shocked and depressed as we were over the tragedy in Dallas," DeLone said.
