Jury Complete for Shaw

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — The 12 jurors who will try Clay Shaw on a charge of conspiring to murder President Kennedy were chosen yesterday.

Two alternates also must be seated before the state begins unloading its case in the Criminal District Court trail — regarded as a legal showdown on District Attorney Jim Garrison's view of the presidential assassination.

The 12th juror, Peter M. Tatum, is a maintenance mechanic. He was the 109th name called among the 132 prospective jurors summoned overnight.

Overall, 839 prospective jurors had been summoned.

Assistant District Attorney

James L. Alcock, named chief prosecutor of the case, said he expects the state's opening statement on the case to come tomorrow.

All of the jurors denied that they had any opinion about the case or the assassination.

Just one of them—Negro school teacher William Ricks Jr.—said he had read much about the case or seen the television programs dealing with it.

Besides Tatum and Ricks, the other jurors were a machine operator at a sulphur plant, a truck driver, an assembly line foreman, a microfilm finisher, a petroleum engineer, an aviation mechanic, a retired fireman, two credit company unit managers and a postal clerk.
