Shaw 350

NEW ORLEANS AP -Clay L. Shaw says he must come out of retirement because of the "disastrous financially" two years it took to be cleared of a presidential assassination conspiracy charge.

"These matters cost a great deal of money," the 55-year-old former businessman told a news conference Saturday after a Criminal District Court jury deliberated less than one hour and returned an innocent verdict.

Shaw said he believed Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison actually felt that he was innocent but had used him to have a forum for an attack on the Warren Commission. The commission said Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone assassin of President John F. Kennedy. Shaw was charged of plotting with Oswald and the late David Ferrie to kill Kennedy.

William T. Gossett of Detroit, president of the American Bar Association, was quoted in The Detroit News as saying the ABA may ask the Louisiana Bar Association to consider disciplinary action against Garrison.

The News reported that he said he felt certain there was "a feeling of outrage" in Louisiana over what he felt to have been an unjustified attack on Shaw.

Gossett said later he was speaking as an individual and could not say what the organization would do. He said he thought he was speaking off the record to the News reporter.

The New Orleans Times-Picayune said Sunday in a page one editorial that Garrison's use of the "Orleans Parish Criminal District Court as the forum in which to vindicate his own conclusions on the Warren Report, we believe, was improper, unjust and an unfair reflection and burden on the community which he was elected to serve."

The afternoon New Orleans States-Item said that Garrison should resign. The page one editorial said that Garrison "has show himself unfit to hold the office of district attorney or any other office," and described him as "a man without principle who would pervert the legal p rocess to his own ends."
