Will Not Seek Office Again, Governor Says

LAKE CHARLES (AP)—Gov. John J. McKeithen told a group of businessmen here last night he would not run for public office again.

He said he would leave the challenge of finding extra revenue for the state to younger men, and he urged the Young Men's Business Club here to help the state find the money needed to operate expanded government programs.

Although most of his talk concerned state financing, during a question and answer session aftpass bills.
