Peking

North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong is scheduled to arrive here today on an official visit at the invitation, of the Chinese government and the Central Committee of the Communist party, it was officially announced yesterday.

This will be the first official visit to the Chinese capital by a North Vietnamese leader since the announcement last July of plans for President Nixon to make a trip to China at the beginning of 1972.

It will take place a few days after reports from Hanoi suggested that North Vietnam might initiate important diplomatic moves regarding the fighting in Indochina.
