Council of AFL Urges Viet Aid

With one dissent, the AFL-CIO executive council urged Congress yesterday to buttress the governments of South Vietnam and Cambodia with military and economic aid.

George Meany, octogenarian head of the AFL-CIO, said although he had been deceived on Indochina by former President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, the United States still has a commitment to its allies there.

"I want these South Vietnamese people to have the right of self-determination," Meany said in press conference after an executive council meeting.

Meany said the council resolution was adopted with one dissent, that of Jerry Wurf, head of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.
