

AP Wirephoto

A Sign of Surrender

Former soldiers of the Cambodian government surrendered themselves and their weapons at Poipet, a city near the border with Thailand. Residents of Poipet gathered around the weapons after the captives had been taken away.