U.S., Viet Refugees

APR 22 1975

At Travis

Travis Air Force Base,
Solano county

Two flights carrying American and Vietnamese refugees from embattled Saigon arrived here yesterday, and two more planes were expected to arrive in the Bay Area last night and early today.

Yesterday's arrivals included a chartered World Airways DC-8 carrying 209 evacuees and an Air Force C-141 carrying 98 persons. There were a great many more Americans than Vietnamese on both flights.

A World Airways plane landed at Oakland Airport last night, and another Air Force evacuation flight was due here early today.
