

New Job for Ex-President Of Cambodia

Milwaukee

Former Cambodian President Cheng Heng has a new life and a new job.

He will begin work Monday in the office of Humphries-Hansen, Inc., a firm that builds tennis courts and running tracks.

"The first few weeks we'll spend getting him acquainted with the operation," said Harry Humphries, president of the firm.

Cheng was interim president of Cambodia in 1970 after Prince Norodom Sihanouk's government was overthrown. He left Cambodia with 12 members of his family when the country fell to the Khmer Rouge and is now living in suburban Brookfield.

CHENG HENG
School in the morning

Humphries said Cheng, 55, along with other members of his family, will spend each morning attending classes at a school in nearby Waukegan learning to read and write English, and go to work in the afternoon.

United Press