

It Takes All Kinds

PSST, WHAT WAS THAT? You may have noticed that the city's 53 air raid sirens, test-blown each Tuesday at noon, were silent yesterday. "In view of the President's speech Monday night," explains Asst. Director Louis Cambou of the Office of Emergency Services here, "we felt some people might not think it was a test."

★ ★ ★

A LOT OF PEOPLE, including thee and me, have been nervous as Nellies since the latest peace-seeking pitch from The Quaker in the White House — but I console myself with these words from Joe Alsop's column last week, now posted on my office wall: "This year the North Vietnamese invaders will be defeated in the end — unless they are the winners." Thankgawd somebody is making sense around here . . . After his speech at the Commonwealth Club . . .
Rep. John A. . .