Viet Pullout:

600 Leave,

400 Arrive

SAIGON — (UPI) — The U.S. Command withdrew 600 American servicemen from Vietnam last week, but another 400 Marine fliers entered the war zone, military spokesmen said today.

The net withdrawal of 200 Americans was the smallest since the last week of January 1971, when there were no pullouts. It left U.S. troop strength in Vietnam at 64,800 as of last Thursday.

President Nixon has ordered American strength dropped to below 49,000 by June 30. An average of more than 2600 U.S. troops must be pulled out each week to meet that deadline.

Since the command issued its weekly strength report, another 700 Marine airmen have been added to the Vietnam rolls, military sources said.

In addition to the troops stationed in Vietnam, another 41,000 Americans are based on the offshore Seventh Fleet and more than 45,000 are at bases in Thailand. While they participate directly in the war, they are not counted on the Vietnam rolls.
