Hanoi Disputes U.S. On Gun Photo

Saigon

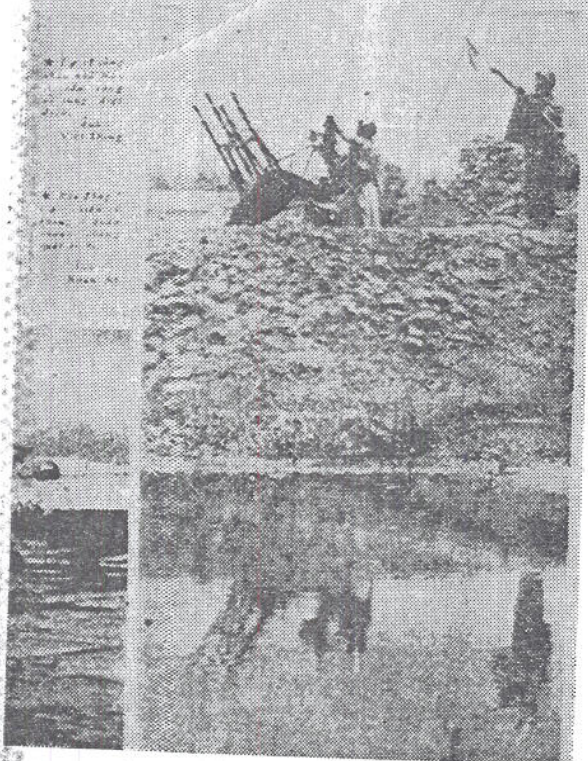

North Vietnam has accused the United States of lying by claiming that a photograph in a Hanoi newspaper showed an anti-aircraft gun placed on a dike.

The picture in the July 19 issue of Hanoi Moi was cited by the United States delegation to the Paris peace talks as evidence there are military sites on and near the dikes which the North Vietnamese have accused the Americans of bombing.

The August 4 edition of the newspaper reprinted the photo and said in an accompanying story the U. S. government-operated Voice of America had made an "intentional, ill-willed distortion of the truth" in reporting the gun was on or near the dike along a river.

It said the earth mound in the photo actually was a "pillbox made of earth" and the water in the photo was not a river but the surface of a pond.
