

AP Wirephoto

War Prayer

A Cambodian family prayed yesterday as they found themselves in the middle of the war currently tearing their country apart. The Khmer Rouge insurgents have occupied their village, and they, along with Lon Nol's troops and American B-52s, are turning the tiny village on Route 1, into a major battleground. Residents are thus forced to flee into already crowded capital of Phnom Penh, five miles away a city under siege.