Chile Issues Those ITT Documents

Santiago

The Chilean government last night published a 93-page "official translation" of documents released by columnist Jack Anderson accusing the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. of trying to prevent the inauguration of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

The documents were translated by Allende's own office, the armed forces chiefs of staff and other government officials. Copies were delivered by messenger to all Santiago communications media.

Presidential palace sources said Allende would address the nation on the documents Thursday night.
