Agnew as Listener: He's Well-Briefed

MAY 24 1971 By JAMES M. NAUGHTON

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, May 23—Vice President Agnew listens.

He may be the Nixon Administration's traveling talk show. He may be considered the converse of the man in the Teddy Roosevelt maxim (he speaks harshly and carries a No. 3 wood). He may not be widely regarded as the epitome of the quiet American.

But a major share of each Vice-Presidential day is spent in the relative cloister of the Presidential understudy. Spiro T. Agnew is, when you come right down to it, a student of Richard M. Nixon's policies, and he spends a lot of his time doing homework.

This process has not worked as well as both men had hoped it would two years ago. But they feel it has worked better than in previous administrations.

If the Vice President were un-

Continued on Page 20, Column 3

EVERY week, more than 26,000 jobs are advertised in The New York Times. See the Employment Columns today. Advt.

The New York Time

Vice President Agnew's job calls for a lot of travel. Here, he listened to Mrs. William P. Rogers, wife of Secretary of State, during barbecue after dedication of Johnson Library Saturday. More about barbecue is on Page 37.

expectedly thrust into the Presiwhat those policies are.

When the President summoned his Cabinet last Thurs with the Soviet Union on the scope of the strategic arms negotiations, Mr. Agnew had already been briefed on the diplomatic development. That was matic development. That was typical.

Mr. Nixon said at the outset of his Administration that he knew the tremors with which a Vice President suddenly inherits responsibility. He did himself, temporarily, during President Eisenhower's illness. He pledged to give Mr. Agnew an office in the White House and a staff in-tegrated with his own. Inevitably, staff frictions de-veloped. Where Vice President Johnson had chafed under Pres-Johnson had chafed under President Kennedy because he lacked power and Vice President Humphrey had become restless under President Johnson because he lacked identity, Vice President Agnew has grown uneasy under President Nixon because he lacks policy authority, which he relished as Governor of Maryland.

Office Next Door

Mr. Agnew's ofkel welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his deforts on providing assistance for the Commission on Maripuna and Drug Abuse; Attorney General John N. Mitchell, and H. R. Haldeman, the President's chief of staff.

The Vice President has had quiet unpublicized luncheons with George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban DevelopVice President Agnew no longer has his of Housing and Urban Develop Visitors to Mr. Agnew's ofwelfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his deforts on providing assistance for the children in the slums but expressing deeply "anti-egalitarian" views toward adults.

"He feels it's right to give everyone an equal starting point, but then it's up to you to run faster than the other fellow," one associate said.

At least one friend of the vice President prograds him as proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his deforts on providing assistance for the vice Mr. Agnew has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare system than Mr. Nixon has proposed, concentrating his welfare s ident Kennedy because he lacked power and Vice President Humphrey had become restless under President John-

Governor of Mr. Agnew no longer has his office in the White House, but in the Executive Office Building next door. His staff is separate and a bit jealous of the prerogatives of the White House aides, inclined to be who are in turn inclined to be derisive of Mr. Agnew's staff and, in a few cases, of Mr. Agnew himself.

golf course—or from the speak-er's lectern. He has presided over the Senate—his only conover the Senate—his only constitutionally explicit duty—fewer than half a dozen times in four months. The Council on Youth Opportunity and the National Council on Marine Resources and Engineering Development, both of which he chaired, have been abolished. He has found time to spend four weekends since January golfing in Palm Springs, Calif., Orlando, Fla.; Augusta, Ga., and Montego Bay, Jamaica.

At one meeting of the National neeting of the National Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned only way a President against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned only way a President against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned only way a President against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned only way a President against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned only way a President against a euphoric treatment of actional Security Council this year, Mr. Agnew cautioned against a euphoric treatment of actionation only way a President the is said to feel that "the is said to Montego Bay, Jamaica.

On the Road

On the Road

The Cabinet committee on school desegregation has been taken over by George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget. The Nagement and Budget and Space President.

He is less inclined than is Mr. Nixon to experiment with détente with the Soviet Union, "deeply convinced," according to one individual who has dissection and the Nagement and Budget and Space President.

Continued From Page 1, Col. 6 tended three of the last five lutely pragmatic in pressing for care about re-election." He is meetings of the National Secu-advantages for itself." rity Council, is a regular par-ticipant in Cabinet meetings, dency, advisers consider it likely that he would change many of Mr. Nixon's policies. Thanks to Mr. Nixon, though, he knows on's office and meetings of Mr. Kissinger's advice and meetings on Mr. Kissinger's advice and meetings of Mr. Kissinger's advice and on's office and meetings of the on Mr. Kissinger's advice and Cabinet committee on economic policy and the Domestic tary in discussions about Viet-Council.

The Vice President receives copies of the President's morning news and classified intelligence summaries. During the recent antiwar demonstrations in the capital, Mr. Agnew was briefed daily by the Justice Department. Before major foreign-policy prononuncement, he is briefed by Henry A. Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's adviser on national security affairs. Edwin L. Har-per, a special assistant to the President, travels with Mr. President, travels with Mr. Agnew on the trips promoting Mr. revenue sharing. Mr. Nixon's speechwriters are on call to Mr. Agnew.

Unpublicized Luncheons

Visitors to Mr. Agnew's of-who are in turn inclined to be derisive of Mr. Agnew's staff and, in a few cases, of Mr. Agnew's friends describes it as "the most glorious welfare job there is: handouts welfare job there is: handouts welfare job there is: handouts from the President" — Mr. Agnew has firmly developed his own views on policy. Rarely, however, has he allowed seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course—or from the speak-on a policy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course it as "the most glorious the economy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course it as "the most glorious the economy.

The Vice President would seem, on the surface, to have little to do but tee off on the golf course it as "the most glorious the economy.

The Vice President has a "the economy.

The default his activity — one the economy.

The default his activity — one the economy.

The v

once the live on a policy.

At one meeting of the National Security Council this

A Loyal Ally

Associates insist that he

Presidents Federal revenue-to one individual who has dis-sharing program, which the critics consider make-work. Agnew, "that the Soviet sys-Even so, Mr. Agnew has at-tem is a power system, abso-

Although fascinated with foreign policy, Mr. Agnew is less self-assured about it than he is Domestically, he would follow his instincts and be, in one associate's view, "Trumanesque—with sharply defined views and no concern whether people liked them." Another friend liked them." Another friend said Mr. Agnew would be "the first Republican Populist since Teddy Roosevelt."

In general, it is felt that he would offer considerably more financial help to states and localities than is contained in Mr. Nixon's $5-billion general revenue-sharing plan and be more politically sensitive to the

He would, the associates feel, seek more radical reform of the welfare system than Mr. Nixon

At least one friend of the Vice President regards him as a more orthodox Republican than Mr. Nixon, but another be-lieves that Mr. Agnew would have acted much more swiftly than the President to expand in comfort.

also fond of pointing out to those curious about 1972 that, so far, in his meteoric rise from president of the P.T.A. to Vice President of the United States, he has never run for re-

All the same, there is a defensiveness among Mr. Agnew's allies over the speculation that Mr. Nixon might replace the Vice President on the Repub-lican ticket next year with his Democratic Secretary Treasury, John B. Connally, Jr., a protégé of President Johnson. "Agnew's constituency is the little Republican," said one of the Vice President.

ittle Republican," said one of the Vice President's boosters. "The little guy who goes out year after year to work for the party, he's not going to buy Lyndon Johnson's baby."

revenue-sharing plan and be more politically sensitive to the views of Governors than of Congressmen.

Syntholic South South Strategies and S observed Vice Presidents since Mr. Nixon had the job, that Mr. Agnew "has not been content Agnew "has not been content with the traditional role. Unlike virtually all the others in the Vice-Presidency, though, he's done something about it."