

WELCOMED AT PALACE IN ETHIOPIA: Vice President Agnew being greeted by Emperor Haile Selassie on Saturday. Mr. Agnew journeys to Kenya and the Congo today.

Agnew Finds Foreign Doubts on U.S.

By ROBERT B. SEMPLE JR. Special to The New York Times ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, July 11—Vice President Agnew Yice President implied that he had met on his tour have said, without exception, they felt that America's status as a world leader had been seri-ously challenged by the publi-United States military or eco-ment documents and by what he leaders. Speaking to reporters in his hotel here, Mr. Agnew de-arging the here in the veriging the main the there in the veriging the main the the president himself here wight the leaders agression the there in the veriging the main the there in the there in the veriging the main the there in the veriging the main the there in the there i

Speaking to reporters in his hotel here, Mr. Agnew de-scribed the leaders as "appalled by the idea that a private businessman—namely, the edi-tor of a newspaper—can take it upon himself to declassify secret government informa-tion."

bia and Ethiopia. He said that the men to whom he had talked in the countries had expressed fears about politics and the press in America. 'A Little Jumpy' 'A Little Jumpy' 'A Little Jumpy' 'A Little Jumpy' Mr. Agnew apologized for not being able to supply news-men with more detail about his defeat in Congress of the super-some of them had cited the defeat in Congress of the super-some transport project as an example. "They do not see," he said, publication of the Pentagon tor of a newspaper-can take sensitive to "Communist of " it upon himself to declassify secret government informa-tion." Mr. Agnew, about halfway through his 10-nation goodwill mission, has conferred with the heads of state and other influ-ential officials in South Korea, bia and Ethiopia. He said that the men to whom he had talked in the countries had expressed fears meeting the people and visiting local projects. The question had been put frequently to Victor Gold, the Vice President's press secretary.

secretary. Mr. Agnew replied that the meetings, which he described as "quite substantive," re-quired a great deal of prepara-tion, and that he had to ab-sorb a lot of "mechanical things" and rules of protocol so that he could carry out the ceremonial aspects of his jour-ney without mishap.