The Talkative Kissinger

Here is David Kissinger, the son of presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, who let the cat out of the bag Wednesday. 24 NOV

David was aboard the presidential jet flying to the Western White House in San Clemente when a reporter asked the elder Kissinger when the president was going to Peking.

"He's going in March," David piped up. David was then sent to the back of the plane.

[President Nixon was principal speaker at dedication ceremonies, Eisenhower Medical Center, Palm Desert, California, 27 Nov 71. Among the speakers was Bob Hope.]

Hope (voice): I think it's wonderful that you're all here, and I'm kind of thrilled that Henry Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's travel agent, is here. And also his son David, who handles the schedules.
