

See ad for The New Yorker - excerpts from article by Richard Harris, "The New Justice" - filed Prep.

..... "As largely political men, [Nixon and Mitchell] have often seemed to view the power the people have given them to do what is fitting as power to do as they see fit.

..... "No one can say that the President has willfully set out to undermine the Constitution that he swore to uphold. But how would the results be different if he had?"
