Nixon Quits Camp David

A Bit Early
St. Chronicle
Washington

President Nixon ended a Camp David weekend earlier than usual and returned to the White House early yesterday afternoon.

His daughters and sons-in-law, David and Julie Eisenhower and Edward and Tricia Cox, joined the Nixons for the last quiet weekend they will have together before the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach next week, which all will attend.

The White House gave no reason for Mr. Nixon's earlier-than-usual return to Washington. But the weather in the Catoctin Mountain area of Maryland was hazy and overcast yesterday and there had been some rain during the weekend.
