See also this file, SFExaminer 29 Oct 72.

The Nixon Campaign Version

By R. W. APPLE Jr.

Second to The New Yeak Times
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—
President Nixon has perfected the ultimate in campaign and inwhich technique and showman-ship transcend substance. It was exhibited in its finished form in northern Ohio Saturday.

Mr. Nixon decided early that he could best campaign by not he will be seemingly unbeatable, and he has clung.

Mr. Nixon decided early that he could best campaign by not he could best campaign by not he will be seemingly unbeatable, and he has clung.

News with conspicuous success, to that the whole swimming pool of American politics to Senator George McGovern and enjoyed himself watching Mr. McGovern thrash about in the deep water. But tradition must be served if only modestly; so Mr. Nixon could not avoid a few forays into the country in the last hours of the campaign, even if all evidence suggests that he could have been re-elected in he had never appeared before a crowd larger than five staff members.

Assist For a Friend

A few close friends among Senatorial candidates (such as Senator Robert P. Griffin, for whom Mr. Nixon appeared in Saginaw Saturday night) needed help. Some of the powerful local Republican leaders (such as Robert Hughes of Cleveland, in whose fife Saturday's Ohio motorcace began) wanted to show off the party's star. And in whose fife Saturday's Ohio motorcace began) wanted to show off the party's star. And of the motorcace began wanted to show off the party's star. And off the motorcace the head of the party's star. And off the motorcace began wanted to show off the party's star. And off the motorcace began wanted to show off the party's star. And of the party's star. And off the motorcace began wanted to show off the party's star. And off the party's star. And off the motorcace began wanted to show off the party's star. And off the motorcace began wanted to show off the party's star. And off the campaign of the cam