NIX AD Tarines DEC 1 8 1972 Watch on the Media

By Herbert Mitgang

More than five years after the Freedom of Information Act became Federal law, it is still difficult for journalists, historians and researchers to obtain information treely. The idea to obtain teromation treely. The idea behind the law was to take the rubber stamp marked "Confidential" out of the hards of bucenerats and open up public records, opinions and policies of Federal agencies to public scrutiny. It has no worked that way

When President Johnson signed the bill, he doclared that it struck a proper bill, he doclared that it struck a proper balance between Government con-fidentiality and the people's right to know, in actual practice, it has taken court actions to gain access to Gov-ernment records. An effort is maily being made to declassify the tons of documents by the Interagency Classi-fication Review Committee, under the chairmanship of former Ambassador John Eisenhower. This historical sur-yey will take years. vey will take years.

But more than mere documents are involved. There is a matter of the negative tone in Washington.

The White House and its large communications staff have lengthened the distance between executive branch, Congress and the public. Of course, every Administration has instinctively applied cosmetics to its public face, but this is the first one operating for a full term under the mandate of the Freedom of Information Act. The re-sult is that official information — especially if it appears to brush the Administration's robes unfavorably — is not communicated but excommuni-cated cated.

The other day Senator Symington of Missouri, a former Air Force Secre tary who has been questioning the wisdom of the President's B-52 foreign policy in Southeast Asia, said: "I would hope that during this session of Congress everything possible is done to gress everything possible is done to eliminate unnecessary secrecy especi-ally as in most cases this practice has nothing to do with the security of the United States and, in fact, actually operates against that security." This point was underscored before the House Subcommittee on Freedom of Information by Rear Adm. Gene R. La Rocque, a former Mediteranean fleet commander who since retiring has heated the independent Center for Defense Information. Admiral La has heated the independent Center for Defense Information. Admiral La Rocque said that Pentagon classifica-tion was designed to keep facts from civilians in the State and Defense Departments and that some Congress-men were considered "had security risks" because they shared informa-they with the public Reparable historians trains to un-ent" facts often encounts. Catch-22 earth facts often encounter Catch-22 conditions. The Authors, reque of America and its members have resisted those bureaucrats offering "cooperation" on condition that manuscripts be checked and approved before book publication. The Department of Housing and Urban Development has denied requests for information about slum housing appraisals. The Department of Agriculture turned down the consumer-oriented Center for the Study of Responsive Law in Washing-ton when it asked for research mate-rials about posticide safety.

The unprecedented attempt by the The unprecedented attempt by the Administration to block publication of the Pentagon Papers, a historical study of the Vietnam war, took place despite the Freedom of Information Act, not to mention the First Amend-ment. And the Justice Department is will dimeting its "war on orige" still diverting its "war on crime" energies to the hot pursuit of scholars who had the temerity to share their knowledge of the real war with the public. Such Government activities not only defy the intent of the Freedom of Information Act; they serve as warnings to journalists, professors, librarians and others whose fortunes fall within the line of vision -budgetary, perhaps punitive— of the Federal Government.

The executive branch's battery of media watchmen are busiest broadcasting because of its franchises broadcasting because of its franchises and large audiences. At least one White House aide, eyes glued to the news programs on the commercial networks, grades reporters as for or against the President. In one case that sent a chill through network news-rooms, a correspondent received a rooms, a correspondent received a personal communication from a highly placed Administration official ques-tioning his patriotism after he had reported from North Vietnam Good news (meaning good for the Administration) gets a call or a letter of praise.

The major pressure on the commer-cial and public stations originates from the White House Office of Telecom-munications Policy, whose director has made it clear that controversial subjects in the great documentary tradition should be avoided. The same reaction should be avoided. The sade viewpoint has been echoed by the President's new head of the Corpora-tion for Public Broadcasting, which finances major programs on educa-tional stations. This Government corporation is now engaged in a battle to downgrade the Public Broadcasting Service, its creative and interconnect-ing arm responsible for serious news

Long before there was a Freedom Long before there was a Freedom of Information Act, Henry David Thoreau was lailed for speaking out and defying the Government's role in the Mexican war, last century's Viel-nam "A very few men serve the State with their consciences." he wrote "and they are commonly treated as eneme hvit" Grand juries, sub-bornes and even Government lailers will be unable to overnower today's men of conscience.
