IN AND OUT: Donald E. Santarelli, an associate deputy attorney general, is due to be appointed to direct the troubled Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, an arm of the Justice Department which administers federal aid for state and local law enforcement projects. He would succeed Jerris Leonard, who resigned to enter private law practice.

And Lt. Gen. Richard T. Cassidy, commander of the U.S. Army Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs, announced he will retire June 1 to become vice president of an El Paso bank.
