Ex-White House Aide Got Airline Job WIX. AD Through Transportation Safety Chief

By Jack Egan Washington Post Staff Writer

Safety Board confirmed yesterday in Senate hearings that At the time the letter was might have been," he told the in February, 1971, he recom- sent, Spears was serving only committee In February, 1971, he recom-mended then outgoing White House patronage chief Harry Fleming for a part-time job with Continental Airlines be-cause of Fleming's "strong en-tree" to various Cabinet de-nature on the letter is the title

who is presently general man-ager of the safety board, testi-fied that he saw no conflict of Reed testified on Monday board.

The committee is looking into charges of White House influence and interference with the supposedly independent regulatory agency, which investigatts transportation accidents and makes safety recommendations.

Six Spears wrote that "Harry has expressed his interest to me quite casually and I can tell you he will be a valuable man for someone here in Washington since he has such strong entree at the Departments of Justice and State and enjoys the kind of rapport with Pete Flanigan that can be very productive.'

Flemming, in a telephone in- executive director title imterview, said yesterday that he properly, saying it must have The chief operating officer never was contacted by Six or been a secretarial error he of the National Transportation anyone at Continental. Six overlooked. "I was not as care-tree" to various Cabinet de-partments and to presidential assistant Peter Flanigan. Four fifths of the tree to be the tree to Four fifths of the board's that time by a 30-year career work involves airplane acci-dents. But Richard L. Spears, was forced out of his post a was unavailable for comment. ful about my p'san q's as I

While Spears claimed he had no policy influence at the safety board, C.O. Miller, who heads the Aviation Safety Bu-reau, told the rearing yesterday that his division had been subjected to "various forms of since forence and harassment" since Spears' arrival which compromised the thoroughness of their work. Miller said that Spears had tried to make him quit his job,