Kissinger's Acts Challenged at Parley

By ROY REED
Special to The New York Times

American Political Science Association, of which he was sociation, of which he was sonce a member.

A move aimed at the possible censure of Mr. Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser for national security affairs, who is Secretary of State-designate, for his part in Government wiretapping and in the bombing of Southeast Asia, was defeated at the association's annual meeting here. However, it seemed to have the support of about 30 per cent of the members voting.

"Accomplice in Terror"

By a vote of 245 to 106, the association upheld a ruling by its president that two resolutions calling for an investigation by the association's Committee on Professional Ethics and Academic Freedom were out of order.

The first resolution criticized Mr. Kissinger's approval of the Mark Roelofs of New York University of Toronto and H. The first resolution criticized Mr. Kissinger's approval of the association more activity and the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions gave thous constitution gave the committee on ethics no power to concern itself with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions gave thorse constitution gave the committee on ethics no power to concern itself with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions gave thorse constitution gave the committee on ethics no power to concern itself with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolution gave the committee on ethics no power to concern itself with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolution gave the committee on ethics no power to concern itself with application of the Nurembersolutions gave the committee on ethics no power to concern itself with the actions constitution gave the committee on ethics no power to concern itself with application of the American involvement in Indo-china."

Mr. Kissinger, Mr. Kissinger, who was generally referred to in the debate as P and Academic Freedom were out of order.

The first resolution criticized Mr. Kissinger's approval of the wiretapping of a number of his Government colleagues and newsmen to try to find the source of Government information leaks. The resolution pointed out that the subjects of the wiretapping included a fellow political scientist, Morton Halperin.

The second resolution criticized Mr. Kissinger for being what it termed "an accomplice in the terror bombing of Hanoi" last fall and for having "issued deliberately misleading peace is at hand' statements on the eve of the 1972 Presidential election."

on the eve of the 1972 Presidential election."

called on Both resolutions

the ethics committee to censure a statement before the business

Special to The New York Times

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5—
The professional conduct of Henry A. Kissinger, the nation's most prominent political scientist, was called into question today by a portion of the American Political Science Association, of which he was once a member.

A move aimed at the possible censure of Mr. Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser for President Nixon's adviser for a concern itself with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions about the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions apout the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow of information in a democracy, the nature of the electoral process, and especially about the application of the Nuremberg Itrials principals to the committee on ethics no large of the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow process, and especially about the application of the Nuremberg Itrials principals to the committee on ethics no large of the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions apout the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions apout the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions apout the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow with the actions of political scientists in public office.

Those opposing the resolutions apout the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow with the actions of political scientists in public office.

The overwhelming vote not to conscientists can be supposed to have a special competence, questions about the citizen's right to privacy, the free flow proved the privacy and privacy approach to privacy and privacy approach to priv