JUL 1 6 1974 · Controversial OEO Chief Arnett Fired

ALVIN J. ARNETT in in ... tried to save programs

1

By Jules Witcover Washington Post Staff Writer

President Nixon yesterday fired Alvin J. Arnett, the Office of Economic Opportunity director accused of lobbying against Mr. Nixon's plans to kill the antipoverty agency.

Arnett was summoned to the White House late yesterday afternoon by Dean Burch, the President's political ad-viser, and asked to submit his resignation by 10 o'clock this morning, to be effective as of July 31.

Burch told Arnett he will be replaced by Bert Gallegos, OEO general counsel, as acting sor whose aggressive disman- ing - creation of a new Legal tling of OEO without congres- Services Corporation - will sional sanction was voided by a federal judge, who also threw Phillips out. A new deputy acting director also is to be appointed.

"I was not following the President's program," Arnett last night said Burch told him. "He just laid it out. The pressures on them were just absolutely inordinate to move me on. I have not been on the reservation. I've been out there trying to save something they just do not want to save."

Arnett said he agreed to director. Gallegos served as submit his resignation after acting deputy director in 1973 being assured by Burch that under Howard J. Phillips, Ar- one of the antipoverty actions nett's controversial predeces-| for which he had been fightbe signed into law by the President. A proposal to achieve a final compromise on the bill comes before the Senate today.

Burch declined to give Arnett any assurance, however, that Arnett's major focus, a bill transferring OEO's community action and few other remaining programs to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, would be signed. The White House already has indicated Mr. Nixon plans to veto the bill. OEO was to be closed by June 30 for lack of funds, but has been extended for 90 days by Congress in the effort to salvage the remaining functions.

See ARNETT, A16, Col. 5

ARNETT, From A1

Arnett informed Burch that he would submit the letter of resignation on the understanding that it would include Arnett's strongest argument for enactment of the HEW transfer bill. He was in his OEO office late last night working on the letter.

The HEW transfer bill crystallized Arnett's troubles last May 29 when the House resoundingly voted for it, 331 to 53—a margin considered large enough to make it veto-proof over the President's threat to a fierce holding action by Ar-around the country rallying | OEO was serving them well in | lican fiefdom, an impossibility governors, mayors and local the states. antipoverty officials to pressure Congress to keep feder-OEO colleagues, George Bull-holdovers from earlier OEO ally supported community ac- ock, Morgan J. Doughton and directors, wrote. "What we are tion programs alive through Robert Jungmann, charged in suggesting is that as part of the transfer to HEW.

said last night, after reviewing a memorandum critical of him submitted by four Office of Economic Opportunity subor-icy in which he sides with the United by four office of Economic Opportunity subordinates, all political appoint-ees and self-styled conservatives. Among them was Wil-liam Buchanan, an Arnett as-sistant and brother of presi-dential assistant Patrick J. Buchanan.

enough to make it veto-proof over the President's threat to reject it. Critics immediately charged that Arnett had been going Burch's recommendation a fierce holding action by Ar-nett himself and numerous governors, who argued that the agency should be a Repub-

They charged Arnett with "extensive travel to line up support for OEO continuance lost his party compass."

Union-led move for its contin-

Gallegos is regarded as just such an administrator. Under Arnett, Phillips and earlier OEO directors, he has served from time to time as acting director in their absence.

Burch reportedly had been urged by Republican congressional leaders to move cau-tiously in dealing with Arnett, lest there be another political outcry similar to what occurred last Oct. 20, when then At-torney General Elliot L. Richardson and his deputy, William D. Ruckelshaus, resigned over the firing of Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

In a meeting with Burch on June 21, Arnett is said to have offered his resignation but tion did not want the public relations risk of another "Saturday night massacre"— the name given to the Rich-ardson-Ruckelshaus-Cox departure.

Last night, as word of Arnett's imminent departure reached Capitol Hill, reaction nett's came from Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.), ranking minority member of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

"Arnett is a good man doing a good job," he said. "It looks like the long knives are out and it's another disturbing instance of a tendency on the part of the administration to conduct impeachment politics."

in an agency of this nature," Buchanan and his' three the four political appointees, their memo that Arnett "has the Executive Office of the Burch acted, OEO sources not only lost control of OEO to President, there could be far

The memo urged that someuance, and more seriously, has one inside OEO with clear Republican loyalties and a cool style as contrasted to the "glandular activism" of Philcoupled with use of money to reward its supporters," many signed after much criticism lips, be appointed. Phillips rethat he wielded an idoloigical meat-ax in hastening to close down OEO.

"We are united in the feeling that no rhetorical points, as during the Phillips days, should scored," the anti-Arnett forces wrote. "Quiet Republiforces wrote. "Quiet Republi-can management can and should be imposed here. No policy statements and verbal vendettas should take place; servicing of White House wishes and Republican con-gressional desires will and should be handled expedi-tiously."