

Aide withdraws as ambassador

Knight News Service

211 X 4 A

WASHINGTON — Stanton Anderson, a 34-year-old former White House aide in the Nixon administration, has asked President Ford to withdraw his controversial nomination to be ambassador to Costa Rica.

The nomination has been passed over three times since May by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.