

NYTimes

11 Apr 70

From story by Jack Rosenthal, filed Prep:

Washington, April 10 - Three professional organizations denounced today a proposal, which has won President Nixon's personal interest, to predict potential criminality by giving psychological tests to every 6, 7, and 8 year old child. ... [The plan] was proposed to the President last winter by Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker, a former personal physician to Mr. Nixon.

"Hutschnecker ... says his idea sprang from a study suggested by President Nixon ... " Jack Nelson, SFChronicle 7 May 70, filed Prep.