Nixon Puts 'Bums' Label' On Some College Radicals

MAY 2 1970

By JUAN de ONIS Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, May 1 policies as "bums" and, in con-proud to be an American." trast, he said American soldiers were "the greatest."

violence at universities and the been thinking, as he wrote, his war were made to a group of speech, about "those kids out civilian employes who greeted there." him at the Pentagon, where he United States military opera- contrasted them with antiwar tions in Cambodia.

sion speech on Cambodia last said: night. Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said known blowing up the camtelephone calls and telegrams puses today are the luckiest received since Mr. Nixon spoke were "positive" in a ratio of six to one.

came from a young woman in President Nixon referred today a group of Pentagon employes to some campus radicals who who told the President: "I violently oppose his Vietnam loved your speech. It made me

Similing pleased, Mr. Nixon stoped for The President's remarks on a moment and told how he had

"I have seen them. They are went for a briefing on the new the greatest," he said. Then he ons in Cambodia.

Mr. Nixon was cheered by puses. Acording to a White public response to his televi- House text of his remarks. He

"You see these bums, you people in the world, going to the greatest universities, and here they are burning up the One such favorable comment books, storming around about this issue. You name it. Get rid of the war there will be another one

> "Then out there we have kids who are just doing their duty. They stand tall and they are proud. I am sure they are scared. I was when I was there. But when it really comes down to it, they stand up and, boy, you have to talk up to those men. They are going to do fine and we have to stand in back of them."

The President's use of the Continued on Page 8, Column 6

term "bums" to refer to stulanguage he has used publicly on the subject of campus violence, although he has been known to employ these terms in private.

Mr. Nixon's visit to the Pentagon this morning began a day that ended with his flying by helicopter to his Camp David retreat for a weekend of relaxation with his family and close friends.

Capitol, Mr. Nixon proclaimed Sunday a national day of prayer for all American

Continued From Page 1, Col. 7 ers and servicemen missing in action in Southeast Asia.

He was accompanied to the dent radicals was the strongest Pentagon by Henry A. Kissinger, his special assistant, and was briefed for one hour and 40 minutes by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and high military officials in the pres-ence of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

On leaving, Mr. Nixon commented:

"I did what I believed to be right. What really matters is whether it comes out right."

'Appear to Be Going Well'

Capitol, Mr. Nixon proclaimed information given the Presi-Sunday a national day of dent indicated that the opera-prayer for all American prison- tions in Cambodia across the South Vietnam border "appear to be going well." Mr. Ziegler said the President stayed up after his speech last night until about 1:30 A.M., receiving visitors and talking by telephone with "friends and of-ficials around the country."

After his Pentagon briefing today, the President returned briefly to the White House and then went on a luncheon cruise on the yacht Sequoia down the Potomac to Mount Vernon, Va.

He was joined by Mrs. Nixon, his son-in-law and daughter, David and Julie Eisenhower, and Charles G. Rebozo, a close friend. The party flew this affriend. The party flew this afternoon from Mount Vernon to Camp David, Md., where they expect to stay until Sunday.