There may not be a debate between President Nixon and his challenger, Senator George McGovern, during the Presidential campaign, and there may not be one between their wives, either. There was talk about a distaff debate from both Mrs. Nixon and Mrs. Eleanor McGovern. "I heard she didn't want to debate," said Mrs. Nixon laughingly. Told about the First Lady's remark, Mrs. McGovern, once a high school debater, said: "Yes. I think I would debate with Mrs. Nixon. I certainly wouldn't back away from it."
