

Nixons' Jewels Partially Listed

Following are appraisal lists for some of the jewelry owned by the wife, daughters and private secretary of former President Nixon. The lists were obtained from two different sources by the Senate Watergate Committee investigators.

The list of jewelry owned by Mrs. Nixon "shortly after she came to the White House" in 1969 is from the files of jeweler Harry Winston in New York.

The lists for Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Eisenhower, along with the partial list for Miss Woods, are taken from incomplete penciled worksheets of Washington jeweler John Snaw's appraisals of 1971. Shaw appraised an estimated $580,000 worth of gems at the White House between 1970 and 1974.

Efforts to obtain appraisals made by Shaw at the White House in other years failed. All of Shaw's Nixon-related records, except those below, were removed from his files in February of this year by insurance broker Edward O. Sullivan Jr., a cousin of Mrs. Nixon's who wrote policies on the jewels involved.
