

Notes on People by Laurie Johnson

Summer people in the Hamptons who have seen Tricia Nixon Cox recently—playing golf, for instance, in a figure-skimming sports dress—are in no hurry to buy the published reports, specifically those originating with maternity-wear saleswomen, that the Richard M. Nixons are expecting their first grandchild.

A source close to the Cox family points Edward F. Cox's parents, the Howard Ellis Coxes, are indeed expecting their first grandchild—from another part of the family; that maternity clothes have been charged to the senior Cox account at Saks Fifth Avenue here and that Tricia Cox may well have shopped for such a gift for her sister-in-law.
