

Kissinger in Hanoi Parleys

SAIGON — (AP) — As Henry Kissinger opened talks in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong yesterday gave the United States the names of the first prisoners they plan to release under terms of the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

The 142 prisoners are to be freed tomorrow morning — tonight U.S. time.

The Viet Cong turned over the names of 19 military men and eight civilians to be handed over in South Vietnam. The remaining 115 will be released in Hanoi and taken by U.S. Air Force transports to Clark Air Base in the Philippines.

In Hanoi, Kissinger began four days of talks with North Vietnamese leaders on post-war relations, U.S. reconstruction aid and a lasting peace for all of Indochina.

Meetings Held

He was met at Hanoi's Gia Lam Airport by Le Duc Tho, the North Vietnamese negotiator with whom he reached the Vietnam peace agreement. He became the first ranking U.S. official in more than a decade to set foot in Hanoi, on what he termed a visit "of good will and reconciliation."

Kissinger met for an hour yesterday with Tho and later for 3½ hours with Prime Minister Pham Van Dong. Tho and other officials, the San Clemente White House reported in California.

U.S. officials said the prisoner list included servicemen and civilians to be freed in the Quan Loi rubber plantation near An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon and 10 miles from the Cambodian border.

General Plan

But Associated Press correspondent Richard Pyle reported from An Loc that the war is still on in the rubber plantation country.

He said two helicopters bearing the orange-striped markings of the International Commission for Control and Supervision landed yesterday morning on the Quan Loi air strip, apparently to inspect the prisoner release site.

The senior representatives of the military commission — which includes the United States, North and South Vietnam, and the Viet Cong — met for a record six hours at the commission headquarters at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airbase to complete plans for the American prisoner release.

Officials said an exchange of prisoners was still being worked out but that a general plan called for the release of 8000 — or one-fourth the total number held by Saigon and the Viet Cong between tomorrow and next Friday.

—Turn to Page 11, Col. 2

—From Page 1

Jungle Camp

U.S. officials said that all of the American prisoners being set free in South Vietnam are from one jungle camp near An Loc, possibly on the other side of the border inside Cambodia.

Kissinger told newsmen in Vientiane, Laos, before leaving for Hanoi that he hoped his consultations in Hanoi would "usher in an era of peace for all the people of Indochina."

Laotian leaders were reported to have discussed with Kissinger the question of a guarantee that the estimated 65,000 North Vietnamese troops in Laos will be withdrawn after a cease-fire.

A Hanoi radio broadcast indicated that the Communist-led Pathet Lao and the royal Laotian government of Prince Souvanna Phouma will decide on a cease-fire in talks scheduled for Tuesday.

The broadcast, quoting the Pathet Lao press agency, said the Pathet Lao and the Vientiane government "will mutually agree on a new decision." It did not elaborate.

Delegate Attacked

In advance of the cease-fire North Vietnamese - led troops of the Pathet Lao are reported trying to seize the town of Thakhet about 150 miles southeast of Vientiane in hopes of severing Highway 23, the main north-south road artery. This would effectively cut Laos in half.

Thakhet has been rocketed several times in the past two weeks.

In Saigon the International Commission for Control and Supervision said it deplors a rock-throwing incident in Ban-Me Thuot in the central highlands in which several delegates of the Joint Military Commission were injured.

The chief delegates to the military commission dispatched an investigating team to Ban Me Thout as the incident threatened to delay even further the peacekeeping missions of the two commissions.

The Viet Cong's senior representative, Lt. Gen.

Tran Van Tra, was reported to have told the military commission that the incident might result in the Communist side's suspending deployment of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong representatives to the field until security and improved accommodations are guaranteed.

8 Injured

Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, representing the United States, reportedly told Tra that improvements could be made but the important thing now is to get observers into the field.

North Vietnam's Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying eight North Vietnamese members of the commission were injured, one seriously, in the incident.

American sources said some members of a crowd estimated to number about 700 persons tossed stones at the North Vietnamese as they arrived.