Hong Kong

Henry A. Kissinger flew to Peking this morning for five days of talks that the White House has called a further step toward improving U.S.-Chinese relations.

For Kissinger, who made his first trip to Peking in complete secrecy to set up President Nixon's trip to China a year ago, it is the next-to-last leg of a Vietnam postwar mission that has already taken him to Thailand, Laos and North Vietnam with a two-day rest stop in Hong Kong. After China he will go to Japan.
