

The First Ten in Jeopardy

by Alan M. Dershowitz [professor of law, Harvard]

The American dollar is not the only bill that has been shrinking in value over the past few years. The American Bill of Rights, our most precious national resource, is also in the process of being significantly devalued.