Burch's Letter Appears to Rebuff Critics of

By CHRISTOPHER LYDON

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 Dean Burch, the new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, appeared today to of the Federal Communications Commission, appeared today to have answered his own doubts about the fairness of television network news and also to have warned the Nixon Administration against further criticism of the media.

Work news coverage.

The comission ruled that brought unfriendly governments to power. He offered no exambles to power. He offered no exambles in arranging for American Broadcasting to power. He offered no exambles in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's journalistic enterprise in arranging for American Broadcast ing Company's jo

The commission, he wrote, "cannot properly investigate to Democrat of Connecticut, said determine whether an account that a "first-class inquiry" into Mr. Agnew complained.

The commission, he wrote, Senator Thomas J. Dodd, ate, critical analysis by telemeasure of counterfire from vision commentators, of which the loyal opposition was hard-determine whether an account that a "first-class inquiry" into Mr. Agnew complained. or analysis of a news commentator is 'biased' or 'true.'"

'The Chill of Censorship'

While Vice President Agnew was expanding his indictment of television and newspapers, Mr. Burch's letter said, "No Government agency can authenticate the news, or should try to do so. Such an attempt would cast the chill of omnivement cast the chill of omnipresent government censorship over the newsmen's independence news judgment."

Mr. Burch previously con-ceded that his personal request for network transcripts was a departure from the routine staff departure from the routine starr handling of public complaints. But the response to Mrs. Paul, adopted by the full commission and signed by Mr. Burch, was even more conspicuously a special reaction to the widening discussion of news coverage.

cial reaction to the widening discussion of news coverage.

The letter noted that, in addition to complaints of "bias and distortion of news by the television networks," fear had been expressed "regarding possible Government intimidation or censorship of the networks' news operation." Mr. Burch stated that the commission wanted to "use this opportunity" to restate its proper role.

Open Forum on Issues

The fundamental requirement under the commission's "fair-ness doctrine," he said, is sim-ply that broadcasters must keep their facilities open as forums on controversial issues.

The doctrine does not require that every commentator be neutral, or that every program present both sides of an issue, but rather that broadcasters that devote substantial amounts of time for contrasting points," he said.

points," he said.

The limit of the commission's authority, he wrote, is to assure that broadcasters air the different sides of a public argument. Beyond that, the commission is "not the arbiter of the 'truth' of a news event," Mr. Burch wrote. He continued: "Indeed, the drafters of the First Amendment to our Constitution knew that the way to stitution knew that the way to preserve truth was not through government surveillance or cen-sorship (for that government may also be wrong), but by giv-ing all persons with views the freedom to express them."

Mr. Burch noted with emphasis that in two recent cases the power of the press might the commission invoked the be in order. He said that The same limits on its power when about the fairness of television network news and also to have warned the Nixon's have warned the Nixon's have warned the Nixon against further criticism of the media.

Mr. Burch's views, endorsed by a unanimous vote of distortion. From the latter decision, Mr. Burch quoted the seven-member commission, were stated in a letter to a Government's intervention to plained about the network complained about the network complained about the network complete that followed President Nixon's Nov. 3 speech on Vietnam.

Wellton in the Columbia Broadcasting Montana, the majority rose in the Senate immediately after Mr. Dodd finished and said, "I would hope none of use become so concerned that we become so concerned that we decision, Mr. Burch quoted the commission's judgment that the conce we reached the kitchen."

"I think that the radio, television, news magazines and newspapers have on the whole done a very competent and fair job informing the people just what the issues are," Mr. Mansfield said.

On Capitol Hill today there were mixed reactions to Mr. Were mixed reactions to Mr. Friendly asked, "did President Johnson have to listen to the Maintain on Nov. 3.

"I don't think President Kennedy rejoiced in having Senators to How the couldn't stand the heat once we reached the kitchen."

"I think that the radio, television, news magazines and newspapers have on the whole done a very competent and fair job informing the people just what the issues are," Mr. Mansfield said.

On Capitol Hill today there were mixed reactions to Mr. Friendly asked, "did President Johnson have to listen to the Misonity was the intervention of the Senate immediately after Mr. Dodd finished and gather Mr. D be in order. He said that The gotten history," said Mr Times had used its power to overthrow governments friendly, former president of C.B.S. News, "when he criticized the Mr. City of the United States and had cized the American Broadcast.

Vietnam.

On Capitol Hill today there what the issues are," Mr. MansMr. Burch himself called each of the three major network presidents on Nov. 5, requesting transcripts of their commentators' remarks about the President's address. But in his letter to Mrs. J. R. Paul, he said, in effect, that his inquiry had been unwarranted.

The commission. he wrote, in the democratic president on Capitol Hill today there what the issues are," Mr. Mansfield said.

Friendly asked, "did President Johnson have to listen to the ward R. Murrow Professor of Broadcast Journalism at Columbia University, noted in a California speech this evening that the Democratic Presidents who preceded Mr. Nixon had also public opinion."

The commission he wrote, Senator Thomas J. Dodd, The President had prime time on all three networks and a small ate, critical analysis by telemasure of counterfire from the loval opposition was hard-

"The Vice President has for former president of "when he criti-