Hoover Urged Prison For Ethel Rosenberg

By The Washington Star
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—
 J. Edgar Hoover, the late director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, strongly recommended against the
 the death penalty for Ethel Rosenberg in a memo to Attorney General J. Howard
 McGrath on April 2, 1951.

Mrs. Rosenberg and her husband, Julius, who were convicted of conspiring to pass atomic secrets to the Soviet Union, were electrocuted at Sing Sing Prison on June 19, 1953.

The Hoover memo was found in a sheaf of correspondence in Rosenberg materials made public by the United States Attorney's office in New York in response to a court order issued in a suit filed by the Rosenbergs' sons, Robert and Michael Meeropol.

But he apparently was motivated by considerations other than the hope that the Rosenbergs might be induced to testify against others.

Mr. Hoover recommended for Mrs. Rosenberg a 30-year sentence—the maximum short of the death sentence permitted under the law.

"This woman is the mother of two small children," Mr.
 Hoover wrote. "As the wife of Julius Rosenberg she would, in a sense, be presumed to be acting under the influence of her husband."

Rosenberg Papers

New York

The late FBI Director J.
 Edgar Hoover and other top law enforcement officials recommended mercy for convicted spy Ethel Rosenberg prior to her execution, government documents revealed

The documents showed yesterday that Hoover, U.S. Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and James Bennett, director of the Bureau of Prisons, all opposed her execution.

Mrs. Rosenberg and her husband, Julius, were put to death at Sing Sing prison in 1953 after they were convicted of supplying atomic secrets to the Soviet Union.

Other declassified documents alleged that Julius Rosenberg confessed his guilt to a cellmate whom he had tried to recruit for a Russian spy ring. Rosenberg publicly maintained his innocence.

The Rosenberg papers were made public as a result of a suit filed under the Freedom of Information Act by the couple's two sons, Michael and Robert Meeropol, who have launched a campaign to prove their parents innocent.

Hoover recommended that she receive a 30-year prison sentence.
