Tass' Lively Account of Angela's Trial

Moscow

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, says the trial of Angela Davis opened amid "artificial hysteria."

"The reactionaries' long-planned trial of Angela Davis started here today amid hysteria artificially whipped up by the authorities," Tass said in a dispatch from San Jose, Calif.

"The very first day of the trial showed that California racists and anti-Communists still hope to use the screen of illegal investigation to give short shrift to an American Communist and Negro civil rights champion," the dispatch said.

Tass did not mention the charges against Miss Davis.
