Magee Led Out of Court --19th Time

Ruchell Magee was removed from the courtroom for the 19th time in two years yesterday after Superior Court Judge Morten Colvin spent half an hour listening to his promises that there would be no more outbursts.

Magee was led away mumbling after another hand-written petition requesting that his trial be stopped was denied by the judge. Colvin said the document did not contain any new evidence.

Magee jumped up, turned to the gallery and said: "Anyone who saw what was in that document would kick the judge and these two dog attorneys too." Magee called the judge "stupid," among other names, before he was led away.

While Magee and Colvin were continuing the outburst routine, the California Court of Appeal began discussing a petition filed by Magee and one of his attorneys, Robert Carrow.

The petition requests that the Court of Appeal order Colvin not to sequester the jury.
