Russians Say an Ex-C.I.A. Man Who Spied in India Has Defected

By RAYMOND H. ANDERSON

Special to The New York Times

MOSCOW, Oct. 24 -American who identifed him-self as a former agent of the Mr. Smith indicates in an in-

American who identifed nimself as a former agent of the Central Intelligence Agency was reported today to have defected to the Soviet Union.

An excerpt from a book written by the American, John Smith of Quincy, Mass., purporting to expose United States espionage activities in serving in the embassy in India.

porting to expose United States espionage activities in India, is printed in the latest edition of Literaturnaya Gazeta, the weekly organ of the Union of Soviet writers.

The book is considered by some observers in Moscow to be the latest volley in a spybook duel between the Soviet Union and the West. It follows the publication in Britain last month of "Man From Moscow" by Greville M. Wynne, a Briton sentenced to eight years in a Soviet prison in 1963 as an accomplice of Col. Oleg V. Penkovsky, who was executed as a traitor. Mr. Wynne was released the next year in an exchange for a Soviet spy jailed in Britain.

The Soviet care Gordon A.

Work, "he writes.

Mr. Smith says that, besides Serving in the embassy in India, he worked in embassies in Ceylon, South Africa, Saudi Arabia, Pakistan and Afghanistan.

The defector alleges that he was persecuted and forced to quit the diplomatic service because of nonconformist political views and disagreement with United States foreign policies.

Before he came to the Soviet Union, he writes, he wandered through many countries, including Australia, Switzerland and Italy.

Mr. Smith says that, besides Serving in the embassy in Louis, be worked in embassies in Ceylon, South Africa, Saudi Arabia, Pakistan and Afghanistan.

The defector alleges that he was persecuted and forced to quit the diplomatic service because of nonconformist political views and disagreement with United States foreign policies.

Before he came to the Soviet Union, he writes, he wandered through many countries, including Australia, Switzerland and Italy.

Mr. Smith says that, besides in Britain.

The Soviet spy, Gordon A.

Lonsdale, was sentenced in 1961 to 25 years in prison by According to a summary in the British as the "directing Tass, the Soviet press agency, mind" of an espionage ring at Mr. Smith served in the United the Bertland payal base.

nonaligned nation. The nation's pro-Soviet policies were troubling Washington, he says.

Anling members of the army's Gen-

Tass Reports on Defector

ming of an espionage ring at the Portland naval base.

After his return to Moscow, for the State Department in 1950.

"Spy," in 1965.

Atter his return to Moscow, Lonsdale published a book, "Spy," in 1965.

Authenticity Challenged
About the same time, the alleged memoirs of Colonel Penkovsky were published in the United States under the title "The Penkovskiy Papers."
The book, the authenticity of which has been challenged, sheds light on the operations of Soviet intelligence.
In turn, the book of the self-styled Central Intelligence, Agency man purports to expose operations of that agency.
The author, who has taken Soviet citizenship and now lives in Moscow, says that he was recruited by the C.I.A. while he was serving in the United States Embassy in New Delhi as a diplomatic code clerk.
He describes in detail a plot in which he says he played the key role in gaining access to the secret codes of an unidentified nonaligned nation.
The nation's pro-Soviet poli-

Soviet Motive Assailed

Special to The New York Times

cies were troubling Washington, he says.

Mr. Smith identifies John Waller, John Marsh and other diplomats in the United States Soviet Government was publicities as fellow conspirators in the employ of the Central Intelligence Agency.

He asserts that the agency recruited agents among the top Indian military leaders, including the memoirs of an almost of the Central Intelligence Agency to offset publicity about the recent defection of a Soviet intelligence official, Lieut. Col. Indian military leaders, including the memoirs of an almost of the Central Intelligence Agency to offset publicity about the recent defection of a Soviet intelligence official, Lieut. Col. Indian military leaders, including the memoirs of an almost of the Central Intelligence Agency to offset publicity about the recent defection of a Soviet intelligence official, Lieut. Col. Indian military leaders, including the memoirs of an almost of the Central Intelligence Agency to offset publicity about the recent defection of a Soviet intelligence official, Lieut. Col. Indian military leaders, including the memoirs of an almost of the Central Intelligence Agency to offset publicity about the recent defection of a Soviet intelligence officials.