NYTimes

nks C.I.A. to Murder in U.S. A Report Li

By JOHN M. CREWDSON

By JOHN M. CREWDSON Special to The New York Times WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 — The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence is investigating the possibility that the Central Intelligence Agency was re-sponsible for a hit-and-run mur-der in New Orleans in the late der in New Orleans in the late 1950's or early 1960's.

A spokesman for the C.I.A. emphatically denied that a pre-meditated murder had ever been ordered or carried out by C.I.A. officials within the United States.

ed States. Senator Frank Church, who heads the select panel, con-firmed through a spokesman that his staff was "at work on this matter," but said that the results of the investigation would not be included in the committee's forthcoming report on C.I.A. assassingtion plots on C.I.A. assassination plots directed at foreign heads of

"We don't know as yet what, weight to give to it," Senator Church, an Idaho Democrat, Church, an Idaho Democrat, said of theinformation obtained by the committee. "We have not made a full assessment of the evidence." Neither the name of the al-

Neither the name or the alleged victim nor any circum-stances that might have pro-voked such an action by the C.I.A. in New Orleans or else-where could be learned

Report First of Kind

The report under investiga-tion, while thus far uncor-roborated, is the first known to have come to the attenion of investigaors suggesting that the C.I.A. had ever considered the use of assassination in this country.

Senator Church provided no details of the evidence obtained by the committee's staff, but the principal exhibit is under-stood to be a written statement from a former missionary that a C.I.A. official once acknowledged to him having partici-pated in such an assassination. pated in such an assassination. The former missionary, the Rev. Alden J. Stevenson, now a chaplain, at the University of San Francisco, was unable in a recent interview to recall the name of the C.I.A. man who, he said, solicited his opin-ion about the ethics of a kill-ing carried out under order ion about the ethics of a kill-ing carried out under orders from agency higher-ups. But -Father Stevenson, a member of the Jesuit order, provided a detailed description of the man, including his in-volvement in intelligence-gath-ering flights over the Chinese mainland from a base at Hsinchu, Iaiwan, where the conversation with the official took place. took place. Father Stevenson, whose mission was in Hsinchu, near the Taiwanese base, and others who had known the C.I.A. offi-cial, subsequently recalled that he had been referred to as "Mr. Mac" and had an aluminum leg.

Intelligence sources said that Intelligence sources said that that description fitted a C.I.A. official they identified as Robert McNamara, who had served with the agency in Washington and Las Vegas, Nev., as well as at Hsinchu.

'Supply Officer'

The C.I.A. spokesman dis-missed reports of agency in-volvement in a domestic assas-sination as "just popycock." but he did confirm that the agency had employed a one-legged man named Robert Mc-Namara, now dead in this Namara, now dead, in this country and abroad.

The spokesman said that Mr. McNamara's only domestic assignment, however, had been to a C.I.A. facility near Las Vegas, where he died on Sept. 3, 1962.

3, 1962. Records compiled by Clark County, Nev., which includes Las Vegas, show that a Robert Joseph McNamara, was pronounced dead on that date of nounced dead on that date of a heart attack. The C.I.A. spokesman de-scribed Mr. McNamara as a "supply officer," and another source confirmed that the agen-cy did maintain a weapons supply depot near Las Vegas at the time.

supply depot near Las Vegas at the time. According to an obituary printed in the Sept. 5, 1962, issue of The Las Vegas Sun, Mr. McNamara, who was then 40 years old, died at an un-named local hotel where he and his family had been guests for the last week. The obituary said that the McNamaras had stopped in Las Vegas on the way to Taiwan, where Mr. McNamara, who was described as a World War II amputee, was to take an as-signment as a civilian employee of the Air Force.

of the Air Force.

of the Air Force. W Efforts to locate Mr. Mc-Namara's wife, who sources said is still living, were not im-mediately successful. I Despite the C.I.A. spokes-man's characterization of him as a "supply officer," others familiar with him or his reputa-tion described him as an "oper-ations type" who had taken part in the Normandy invasion, and who, under military cover, had headed intelligence over-flight operations conducted by the C.I.A. from Taiwan. The C.I.A. spokesman at first

The C.I.A. spokesman at first refused to address the question of whether Mr. McNamara had of whether Mr. McNamara had ever been ordered by his super-iors in the agency to carry out a murder in New Orleans, saying only that there was "no record of him being assigned anywhere except the Las Vegas area" within the United States.

A 'Flat' Denial

The spokesman telephoned a few minutes later, however, to say that the C.I.A. would "flatly deny that Mr. McNama-ra was ever instructed to kill anyone or did carry out such an assignment."

He declined, however, to extend his denial to encompass the possibility that Mr. McNa-mara might have undertaken such an operation without the approval of higher authorities.

The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence has compiled a report of 400 pages based on the evidence it has gathered on the evidence it has gathered in secret hearings concerning attempts by the C.I.A. on the lives of some foreign leaders, principally Fidel Castro, the Cuban Prime Minister. Sources familiar with the re-port, which the Church commit-tee plans to release next week if the full Senate approves, have said that although it deals "chiefly" with assassination plots directed at foreign heads of state, it will also illustrate, in the words of one source, "how the agency deals with people who try to blackmail it."

Letter Spurred Inquiry

Letter Spurred Inquiry These sources said that the report contained evidence, pro-vided to the Senate committee by the Rockefeller commission, which investigated some as-pects of the C.I.A.'s activities, that an individual had been killed by the C.I.A. under such circumstances, but outside the United States. Although the Senate report is understood to contain indica-tions that more than one low-level intelligence operative met level intelligence operative met with a similar fate, none of the information thus far provid-ed to the Church committee by the C.I.A, has concerned an officially sanctioned murder in New Orleans or elsewhere inside this country.

Father Stevenson, the former missionary whose letter to a member of Congress outlining his conversation with Mr. Mc-Namara provided the impetus for the Senate committee's in-vestigation, said in the recent interview that, as best the could recall, the discussion fook place between 1959 and 1961. The priest said that he had become acquainted with Mr. McNamara, a Roman Catholic, Father Stevenson, the former become acquainted with Mr. McNamara, a Roman Catholic, through his attendance at services the priest held at a chapel near the Hsinchu base, and that after a time the C.I.A. man invited him to dine with himself and his wife at their house in the C.I.A. compound at Yang Min Shan, in the hills north of Taipei. Father Stevenson said that he had considered the invita-tion unusual, because the C.I.A.

he had considered the invita-tion unusual, because the C.I.A. contingent working at Hsinchu was a tightly knit group that kept its own company, and that he accepted because he felt that the C.I.A. man had "something on his mind." The man's wife, who, sources said, was also a C.I.A. employ-ee, remained in Taipei after the meal, the priest said, and it was during the 50-mile drive back to Hsinchu later that evening that the conversation about the assassination took place;

Father Sevenson emphasized that his discussion with the C.I.A. man did not constitute a formal confession, but rather was a conversation of con-science in which the man, at first, "just threw out this hy-pothetical case."

The problem he posed, the priest recalled, concerned the appropriate moral and ethical response to an order from high-er authority "to eliminate a person as a danger to national security."

A Further Opinion

The man told him, Father Stevenson said, that he had previously discussed the same question with another priest, but wanted a further opinion. but wanted a further opinion. As the man provided more de-tails about the "hypothetical" murder, the priest said, he be-came suspicious and asked him whether he had been "involved in something like this." The man, he recalled, replied that he had been and explained

The man, he recalled, replied that he had been, and explained that he was troubled by the fact that he had relied on the judgment of his superiors in carrying out the killing, having known nothing about the vic-tim or the C.I.A.'s reasons for wanting him dead. Father Stevenson said that

Father Stevenson said that ie C.I.A. man had told him the he had simply received instruc-tions one day to travel to a planning site without disclosing his whereabouts to anyone, in-planning site without disclosing his whereabouts to anyone, in-cluding his wife. Once there, the man said, he was told that he was to take part in an assassination in the New Or-leans area with assistance from another C.I.A employee. A check of the New Orleans city directory showed that a Robert McNamara rented an apartment near the Tulane Uni-versity campus in 1960, but no indication could be found that he and the C.I.A. official were one and the same. The owner of the building in which the apartment had been taken said that he had no records of tenants going back to 1960, and that the manager of the building in that period had since died. Father Stevenson said that he remembered the C.I.A. man telling him that, as planning for the operation continued.

he remembered the C.I.A, man telling him that, as planning for the operation continued, his wife became progressively disturbed by his unexplained disappearance and finally in-sisted to the man's superior that she be told where he had gone and why that she be told where he had gone and why. The priest said that the man told him that, much to the displeasure of the C.I.A., he was flown home to reassure his wife of his safety before resuming the planning for the assassination.

CLA