

Another Hughes Will Turns Up

Las Vegas

Another Howard Hughes will surfaced yesterday.

It named Hughes' Summa Corp. as executor of the estate, although a Summa spokesman later acknowledged that the corporation did not exist at the time the will was dated.

Nevertheless, the new document, which apportions the multi-billion-dollar Hughes estate to relatives, charitable causes, and ten "living Americans" identified only by Social Security numbers, was filed with the Clark county clerk yesterday by Summa officials as a matter of routine.

The three-page, neatly handwritten document was dated June 22, 1969. Summa Corp. did not exist before December, 1972, nor was the name even under consideration much before then, according to Summa spokesman Arelo Sederberg.

The purported will was received in the mail by the clerk's office. It was addressed to the Summa Corp., care of the Clark county clerk.

The return address on the document, which did not state the total value of the Hughes estate, read "Hughes Tool Co., Houston, Tex."

Summa Corp. was set up by Hughes to run his multibillion-dollar holdings.

Assistant Clerk Elda Hanks said she turned the unopened envelope over to Summa executive Jim Cullen. The document was later filed by William Morse, a Nevada attorney for Summa, and Wayne Williams, a trust officer of the First National Bank of Nevada, Hughes estate administrator in Nevada.

Although the document contained few, if any, of the misspellings apparent in a purported will delivered nearly two weeks ago by representatives of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, at least two anomalies appeared:

- Distribution "to all my blood relatives" is mentioned in two of the seven items of the document.

- The curious distribution of one-sixth of his estate to "ten living Americans" who are identified only by their Social Security numbers.

Sederberg said there is at present no connection between Summa and Hughes Tool Co., which is still in existence, though now publicly held. In 1972, said Sederberg, the oil well division of Hughes Tool was sold to the public and the firm's remaining assets were incorporated into Summa.

This was the second will to turn up since the death of Hughes April 5. He was believed to have holdings worth $1.5 billion to $2.5 billion.

In the new will, Hughes' assets were earmarked as follows:

"First: "To all my blood relatives I leave one-twelfth of my estate.

"Second: To Hughes Medical

Institute of Miami, Fla., I leave one-sixth of all my assets.

"Third: One-sixth of my estate to be divided among the University of Nevada and the University of California.

"Fourth: One-sixth of my estate to be divided among the Universities of Texas and the University of Mexico City, Mex.

"Fifth: One-twelfth of my estate to be divided among the blind and homeless children of America and to the one's with medical needs.

"Sixth: One-sixth of all my assets to be divided among 10 living American individuals, bearers of the Social Security account numbers — 009-22-3345, 339-55-6648, 669-88-9951, 999-11-2254, 119-33-4446, 449-66-7749, 779-99-0052, 229-44-5547 and 559-77-8850."

Although the document said ten Americans, it listed only nine numbers.

"Seventh: One-sixth of all my estate, I leave to all my blood relatives to put use as they wish. May this document bring contentment and peace of mind to all."

The envelope was postmarked in Houston, Tex., on May 6. The document was written in black ink. There were no witnessing signatures. The envelope was addressed in handwritten printed letters, while the document itself was in script.

The front page of the document said: "I Howard R. Hughes: Avow that this document be my Will and Testament."

The first will, filed in a Las Vegas court April 27 after mysteriously appearing at Mormon church headquarters in Salt Lake City, was a three-page, handwritten document dated March 19, 1968.
