

Investigation Reveals Cuban Exile Network

(by Jan Austin)

Investigations into the sabotage of that Cuban airliner that crashed last month have led to the unprecedented discovery of a right-wing Cuban exile network set up to carry out terrorist activities in half a dozen countries. Yet the story, which has important political implications as well as being filled with intrigue, has been ignored by much of the U.S. press. So far, this much has come to light: ....