ALLILUYEVA BOOK TRACED TO SOVIET

Stern Got Copy From Man With Russian Passport

By DAVID BINDER

By DAVID BINDER Special to The New York Times FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 6—The man who made unau-thorized copies of Svetlana Alliluyova's memoirs available to Western publishers was in Berlin today waiting for new material on the life and loves of Stalin's daughter, according to authoritative West German to authoritative West German sources.

He is Victor Louis, a slendor, blond man of about 38 who is traveling on a Soviet passport and describes himself as a journalist.

According to the West Ger-man sources, Mr. Louis expects to receive the new material on to receive the new material on Mrs. Alliluyova directly from Soviet officials in East Berlin. It is believed that Soviet au-thorities provided Mr. Louis with copies of Mrs. Alliluyeva's memoirs to diminish the impact of publication of her story in the west on the eve of the cele-bration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution on of the Bolshevik revolution on Nov. 7.

Publication in Fall

Publication in Fall The memoirs will be pub-lished by Harper & Row in Oc-tober. Shortly before their pub-lication in book form, they will be serialized by The New York Times and excrepts will be published by Life magazine. Mr. Louis is accompanied in Berlin by a member of the staff of The London Daily Express, which purchased the memoirs and a large set of photographs out of the Stalin family album from Mr. Louis. The Express will publish the photographs tomorrow.

tomorrow. Mr. Louis is an occasional correspondent of The London Evening News in Moscow. He has entrée to the Kremlin, and it was he who made the interview with former Soviet Pre-mier Nikita S. Khrushchev that mier Nikita S. Khrushchev that were later used in a National Broadcasting Company docu-mentary film. The West Germany magazine Stern first came in contact with Mr. Louis while negotiat-ing for the right to reprint material from the Khrushchev documentary last spring.

'A Tame Rabbit'

The sources said that Mr. Louis, after offering copies of Mrs. Alliluyvea's memoirs to the Mrs. Alliluyvea's memoirs to the Daily Express, continued to Hamburg where the headquar-ters of Stern are located, to make a similar offer to the il-lustrated magazine. Tomorrow's issue of Stern carries a cover picture of the Stalin family pic-nicking, reportedly a few months before the suicide of Mrs. Allilyvea's mother. Inside, Henry Nannen, Stern's editor, wrote a lengthy com-mentary of the memoirs, which had been sold to him by Mr. Louis. He called them a "thin family soap opera," and "a tame rabbit."

According to the sources, Mr. Louis spent two days negotia-ting the sale of the material to Mr. Nannen. The price could not be learned, but it was au-thoritatively said to be "much much lower" than that paid by a consortium of publishers in the United States earlier this year. It is also understood that Mr. Louis is offering the same material with hints of more to come to publishers in France and Italy. Forgery Feared According to the sources, Mr.

Forgery Feared

What Stern purchased was the right to copy the 307-page original—in cyrillic script—of the 1963 memoir entitled, "My Life with Father—Twenty Let-ters t oa Freiend." The magazine was also sold a bundle of photographs and an English translation of the Russian text. The sources said Stern did not want to be involved in a Soviet forgery and for compari-1 son purposes purchased a copy of the memoirs in Russian pub-lished last week in London by Hutchinson's.

Stern maintained that thell Stern maintained that the Hutchinson memoirs and the manuscript delivered by Mr. Louis were identical. Hutchin-son's expects to put out the English edition of the memoirs in October. It put out the Rus-sian version to rotted it a conv sian version to protect its copyright.

Mrs. Alliluyeva said she made three copies of her manuscript when she finished it four years ago. One she smuggled to India with her last winter. The other two she left in Moscow.

A Correction "The Confergion